SAILOR, GIRL ARE HELD FOLLOWING AUTOMOBILE RACE

Harold John Kruep, 22, sailor in the United States navy, and Miss Dolores Elmquist, 19, Stockton, were taken to the Nevada County jail on Monday night following a spectacular chase by State Patrolman Melford Peterson and a crash near Truckee in the early hours of Monday.

Peterson had received a report that a big new Cadillac sedan driven by a sailor, had left the Applegate service station without paying for gasoline. Peterson spotted the car as it went through Truckee shortly before 3 a. m. and gave chase. At the curve just west of the state quarantine station, the pursued car skidded on the soft shoulder, careened across the highway and turned over three times.

Kruep and Miss Elmquist escaped injury but the car registered to T. F. Orland, 3700 Geary street, San Francisco was virtually demolished. The driver said he was traveling about 90 miles an hour at the time.

Patrolman Peterson secured aid for the two then placed them in custody. Kruep, who, officers said, admitted being absent without leave, declined to say where he was from, but said they were en route to Reno to be married.

The car had been missing four days.

By WALTER M. BARRETT

Believe it or not, the announcement that the Navy Department will install a huge training base on Lake Tahoe is already being felt here despite the fact that the important announcement was not made until Tuesday. Several representatives of various construction companies, workmen and technicians are arriving in the district to ascertain the local status and be prepared for the opening of the work. It is still difficult for us to visualize the magnitude of such a project, but we may safely say that it will be terrific from a local standpoint. We may be assured that if the project is started, and we have every reason to believe that it will be, Truckee, Lake Tahoe and other surrounding communities will be greatly benefited. Just to what extent is a matter of conjecture, but benefited they will be.

Two weeks from tomorrow morning, the Truckee river and other sections of this district will be crowded with fishermen. The season opens Friday, May 1, and prospects are better than usual with good weather expected and the streams and lakes reported to be supporting more fish than in recent years.

We are happy to announce this week that Attorney General Earl Warren has tossed his hat into the political ring and will be a candidate for the governorship of California. Warren's political record is excellent and we feel confident that if elected he will serve the state as capably as he has served it in his present position. From the present outlook, we are sure we will heartily endorse Earl Warren for the vital post which he seeks.

Lane pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace C. E. Smith and was given a ten day suspended sentence.

A small but enthusiastic audience Sunday afternoon at the Donner Theater witnessed a return showing of the defense sound pictures provided by Russell Farley of the State Board of Equalization and the county defense committee. The pictures are the same that were shown here last month to defense groups and were brought back at the request of the local committee so that everyone could have the opportunity of seeing them.

Farley was accompanied by William Cassettari of Grass Valley, who spoke prior to the showing of the educational films; Don Greeley of the state board and Sheriff Dewey Johnson of Sierra County.

The committee here expressed appreciation to the sponsors and to V. C. Shattuck, manager of the local theater.

Truck Driver Dies When Vehicle Is Wrecked Friday

Companion Seriously Hurt In Mishap On Grade Near Truckee

Ralph Wetzel, 26, Santa Ana truck driver, was instantly killed and a companion, John Buchanan, 32, of Calistoga, was severely injured when a truck they were operating went off the grade near the foot of Donner Summit and crushed them beneath at 3 o'clock Friday morning. Buchanan suffered a compound fracture of his right leg below the knee and was taken to a Reno hospital by the Laity ambulance.

Wetzel and Buchanan, driving separate trucks were en route from Calistoga to Doyle, Lassen county, where they were employed in construction work near there. Wetzel brought his truck into Truckee and returned to Donner Summit to assist Buchanan with his truck, which had been causing some trouble.

As they neared the bottom of the grade, the truck evidently got out of control and went off at the same place where two other trucks have been wrecked during the past two years. The dump body of the truck opened and caught Wetzel, crushing him to death. Buchanan's leg was caught between the body and frame of the truck.

Wetzel's young wife and their four months old baby daughter, were in a car immediately behind the truck and passed the scene of the accident without knowing of its happening. The body was brought to the Laity Funeral Home. Buchanan's wife and two children were also following.

Wetzel is survived by his wife and daughter, two brothers and two sisters.

NUTRITION MEET TO OCCUPY LOCAL WOMEN TUESDAY

An all-day session of programs pertaining to nutrition, gardening, budgeting, etc., in conformance with the general scheme in national defense will be held at the high school starting at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. Everyone interested in this vital work is urged to attend. The meeting will be under the direction of Mrs. H. Kjolrie of Nevada City.

The subcommittee on nutrition is sponsoring the meeting and hope demonstrators will be on hand to lead the discussions. Emphasis will be placed on preparing foods, budgeting and other similar subjects. Mrs. A. R. Ghirard will head the discussion on victory gardens and a portion of the day will be given over to nutrition as it pertains to prenatal care.

All the women of the area are invited to attend and take part in the program.

PROF. WILSON IS SPEAKER DURING LIONS CLUB MEET

Prof. N. E. Wilson of Reno gave an enlightening and interesting discussion on the prophecies of the past and their relation to our present troublesome times, before a meeting of the Truckee Lions Club at the Wyethia Clubhouse last night where the Ladies Aid Society of the Community Methodist Church served the delicious dinner.

Joe Kuehn, manager of the Sierra Tavern, was inducted as a new member by Frank Campbell, past president of the Reno Club, who was a guest at the meeting. C. Edmunds was program chairman.

Other guests included Robert Gifford and Nat Quilici of Truckee and Manuel MacHaudo of Sacramento.

Governor Candidate

Attorney General Earl Warren, who last week announced he would be a candidate for governor of California. Warren's past records and his program for future progressive steps, should easily assure him the nomination.

RAIDS CONDUCTED BY FEDERAL MEN IN RESORT AREAS

Federal Bureau of Investigation officers numbering 11, six state highway patrolmen and at least three sheriff's deputies Monday conducted a series of investigations in the Donner Summit area where they had had reports on enemy alien activities.

One man, William Handrack, 35, said by officers to be a German alien without proper registration papers, was booked and taken to Nevada City. He had been employed as a cook in a resort near the summit. Other public and private establishments were searched and occupants questioned and while no reports were immediately made, it was understood that only one other arrest resulted. That was of a man who had left the area for the bay district following an accident.

A smoke bomb, found beside the highway, failed to create much excitement among the officers, although they are seeking to learn the identity of the owner.

Nearly all places which were known to have housed enemy aliens even on brief visits to the popular snow country, were thoroughly investigated and were given clean bills.

Deputy Sheriffs N. F. Dolley, Turk O'Hara and William Woods of Nevada county assisted in the investigations, which were under the direction of FBI officials.

Trout Fishing Will Start May 1st In Truckee-Tahoe Area

Prospects Good As Fishing Season To Open On Local Streams

Trout fishing season opens here and Lake Tahoe on May 1.

Prospects for a better-than-usual season of the Truckee River and its tributaries looms this year, result of several contributing factors, principal among which was the heavy planting of fry by the state fish and game commission last fall. More than 4,000,000 trout were planted in the district and 150,000 six-inch trout were raised at the San Francisco Fly-casting Club's tanks and added to the river.

Another sign of good fishing was the lack of high water. The river and its tributaries were filled with ample food for the fish all winter and, although the season was cold, it was not cold enough to do any damage.

The season here opens on Friday, May 1, and the sun is scheduled to rise about 5:12 o'clock a. m. Fishing may be started an hour earlier than this and will continue until an hour after sundown.

The Boca Reservoir will be closed. At least that is the opinion of the Truckee-Carson Irrigation District, which, with the Sierra Pacific Power Company controls the waters of the reservoir. Game Warden William La Marr had a conference with irrigation company officials last week and he was informed that Boca would not be opened. However, efforts are being made by the Truckee Chamber of Commerce to have the fish and game commission take action which will at least permit some fishing in the lake which is the source of abundant rainbow trout.

Tributary streams to the Truckee should be good, although Sagehen and the Little Truckee will not be accessible because of snow.

Military restrictions will prevent fishing near bridges, etc., but otherwise the season will be the same as usual. No alien licenses will be sold locally, it is reported and none may be issued even by the state commission. The Lake Tahoe area also anticipates a good season and the lake opens May 1, although feeder streams will not open until a month later.

announced that Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox had authorized the new station which will occupy two miles of shoreline and 10 square miles for the training station.

Work will be expedited and the plant will be ready for occupancy by January 1, 1943, the announcement said.

The Navy said that the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads completed the survey of the site in the vicinity of Tahoe City and at the rail terminal of the Southern Pacific, 15 miles south of Truckee.

While the cost of the project was not definitely announced, it was understood to have been estimated by Senator Berkeley Bunker of Nevada at $30,000,000.

The camp will be of a semi-permanent type, following the CCC camp pattern and will be built under the supervision of Captain Henry G. Taylor, naval construction officer of the 12th Naval District.

The station will be built to handle 20,000 men at first. This will include 5,000 in technical courses and 15,000 recruits every six weeks.

A sister project is being erected at Coeur d'Alene, Idaho.

FOURTH DRAFT TO BE HELD HERE ON APRIL 26, 27 AND 28

The fourth draft registration will get under way in Truckee and the balance of the country on Sunday, April 26, and will continue Monday, April 27, and Tuesday, April 28, it has been announced by selective service officials. Hours will be from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m.

The Sierra Sun office will be the place for registration in this district and the registrars will be C. B. White, Roy A. Feathers, Y. Nobles and Walter M. Barrett.

All men between the ages of 45 and 64 are required to register at that time.

Motion pictures of skiing in the Sugar Bowl in 1941 and pictures of Summer Posse of Nevada County were shown by John Jurden at the meeting of the Truckee-Tahoe Rotary Club Monday night. The program chairman was Eric Gram of Norden and Oscar Jones presided.

The club voted $10 to assist in defraying the expense of the Third Annual Mountain District Youth Conference to be held here on May 2. Rudy Albrecht, mountain district secretary of the Y.M.C.A., who is arranging the program, told the members of the meeting of the planned convale.

Other guests included Donald Kennedy of Norden and Rev. Grant J. E. Keetch of Truckee.

ARTESIAN WELL AT LAKE TAHOE SAID TO BE EXCELLENT

Artesian well water, having excellent qualities for domestic use has been definitely found near the north shore of Lake Tahoe on the Riolo Club property at the edge of the Brockway golf course, as revealed to District Ranger H. I. Snider by J. V. Riolo, owner of the property. Snider believes this is the only known artesian fresh water found among the many wells drilled in the Lake Tahoe drainage of the Tahoe National Forest, although the hot mineral springs at the Brockway resort have known to run over the surface of the ground separate from and at the edge of Lake Tahoe since this area was occupied by pioneer settlers and probably many hundreds of years before.

Riolo informed Snider, one peculiar feature about the artesian force of the water is that since the well was drilled three years ago, the water

BOYS', GIRL WEEK FIXED FOR APRIL 25TH BY GOVERNOR

SACRAMENTO, April 16.—(UP)—The week of April 25 to May has been proclaimed "Boys and Girls Week" by Gov. Culbert L. Olson to promote the general welfare of American youth and comply with a national observance at the same time. "The object of this week," the proclamation said, "are to awaken an increasing number of adults to the joys and opportunities of helping youths; to give impetus to year round programs and character building activities for the general welfare of boys and girls and acquaint the public with agencies serving this purpose; to emphasize the importance of education and the complete development of boys and girls, physically, mentally and spiritually, calling attention to duties in the home, the school, and the church in this development; to instill in boys and girls love of country, and a realization of the benefits and responsibilities of citizenship.

stops running out of the pipe of its own volition about the first part of December and starts running again about the first part of March, with a force sufficient to flow through faucets in the Riolo kitchen without pumping, although pumping is necessary later in the summer, especially to raise the water to the second story of the lodging quarters. Snider believes the reason for the variation of the flow is probably due to the ground at the higher levels freezing in early winter, cutting off a large portion of the surface flow from entering the substrata and when the ground thaws under the snow later in the winter, the water in the surface soils again find its way down through the subterranean channel to the area near the lake.

THE TAX EXPERT

In a world full of "experts" and near experts, a man must be indeed good to stand out among the many who claim the title. Richard E. Collins, "Dick Collins" to the ones of us who know him well, does, however, fill the bill.

Thirty-five years is a long time for a man to serve in any capacity. Dick Collins has served the people of the state of California for those 35 years and has served them well. During that time he has guided the affairs of the State Board of Equalization from a small Board to the greatest administrative body having to do with taxes in the State of California, and, for that matter, greater than most boards throughout our United States.

As we look backward over the past ten years, California has come through terrific economic strain, with its credit and its integrity unimpaired. The sound financial condition in which the state now finds itself is not due to good luck or happenstance, but it is due to the fine fiscal administration by the State Board of Equalization.

The administration of the state revenue laws and the changes in the fiscal structure in the state of California could not have been brought about had it not been for the guiding hand of Dick Collins, chairman of the board, a tax expert, and a tax administrator. It is vital the state retain the services of such a man as he who has demonstrated over and over again his ability to direct the fiscal affairs of the state.

To use the words of Abraham Lincoln—"We are now engaged in a great war" to see if this nation will again survive: And survive it will as long as we keep men of the ability, honor and integrity of the type of Dick Collins. Most certainly he must be returned to the State Board of Equalization and continue to serve for many years to come as its chairman.

SERFDOM IN 1942, A. D.

Not since ancient times when warring tribes uprooted their vanquished opponents and carried them off to slavery, has Europe witnessed the organized slavery which is now being carried out on a grand scale.

The "New Order" makes no apologies for this state of affairs. The removal of hundreds of thousands of persons—principally those too young or old to fight—from their homelands, the breaking up of families, the establishment of forced labor, and part of the permanent scheme of things as Nazidom sees it. Since all other races and nations are regarded as inferior in rank, peopled by creatures with no more claim to respect or justice than cattle, it is but logical to find the Hitler hierarchy exploding non-German Europe with cold blooded thoroughness.

Today in Germany there are 1,100,000 Poles and 250,000 Belgians serving what uses their Nazi masters have put them to. Hitler's dupe, Mussolini, has delivered up 300,000 Italian men and women into German hands, with another 100,000 promised for the near future. The Berlin radio is now boasting that no fewer than 4 million non-Germans will soon be toiling in German fields and factories under their Prussian task masters.

This system bears a certain resemblance to that found in the insect world by which ants establish colonies of aphids to produce food for the ants—except that the ant deserves a worthier comparison and is a stranger to the conscious, deliberate inhumanity which the axis order extols.

Slavery in Europe in 1942 is no figure of speech, but a fact. Until the slaveholders' power is crushed, in Europe and Asia, the menace to the free nations remains. We can neither trade, nor live, with a world half slave. This the champions of the "New Order" admit. They agree

Heavy Fined Levied Against Five Illegal Hunters In Amador

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—Fish and Game Patrol Captain John O'Connell and Warden R. J. Little and William Hoppe recently arrested Frank Williams, William Sherwood, John Smith and Tony Pana of Stockton for violating three sections of the Fish and Game code. They were hunting at night with a spotlight, haking deer during a closed season and killing female deer.

The defendants were taken before Judge L. P. Gebhardt of Ione and fined $500 each with an alternative of serving six months in the county jail if the fine was not paid.

Each of the game violators had one female deer in his possession at the time of arrest—four o'clock in the morning.

the world must be fashioned after their pattern or ours. We have accepted their challenge and will fight until victory is ours.

AGENCY—ITIS

With Uncle Sam's family of government workers continuing to multiply with unchecked speed, the public is inevitably growing concerned over the upkeep of proliferating agencies and their ever growing staffs.

The number of employees on Federal payrolls was swelled by the addition of 32,000 newcomers in February, 10,000 of this number being added in Washington, D. C. alone.

In the past 12 months, the number of Federal jobholders has registered a staggering increase of 550,000 persons. The staffs of numerous agencies have doubled, and the multiplication of new agencies has gone forward at a rate which has left even case-hardened Washington groggy.

Friends and critics of the administration alike have been alarmed by this epidemic of agency-itis, the welter of new bureaus, the top heavy staffs, the legion of aides and consultants with ill-defined tasks, and even less well defined authority.

These mushrooming payrolls are not only thrusting a severe and needless tax burden upon citizens. They are a hinderance to the war effort. Agency-itis paralyzes the ability to get work done.

Pow-wows are in progress, our spy advises, to determine whether an amendment will be sought at the November election adding a new section to that basic article of the State Constitution which declares that "All men are by nature free and independent, and have certain inalienable rights...." The proposed new section would read: "Their right to seek or hold employment shall not be denied or abridged because of membership in a labor organization."

Agile, able Chief Justice Phil Gibson of the State Supreme Court, impatient with the "law's delays," is credited by his associates with having introduced "the speed-up" into the field of higher jurisprudence. Decisions are coming down like bombers off a Ford assembly line. It's precedent shattering; that's what it is—and almost unconstitutional!

Governor Olson, who announced recently that he wouldn't ask for deferment if the Democrats draft board wanted him to serve a second hitch, is getting around, here and there and everywhere, and doing plenty of hand-shaking. But young Jim Rolph, energetic candidate for lieutenant governor, has the governor licked to death. He actually has a broken mitt! How'd he get it? Well, ask him!

VICTORY FIRST!

Above everything else today—the job is to win the war.

WHAT GREYHOUND IS DOING: Greyhound is furnishing transportation for the armed forces and for war workers to and from plants. ★ Greyhound is continuing to serve civilian travelers, now more dependent on buses because of private car and tire restrictions. ★ This tremendous task constantly grows greater and is being done with the limited number of buses available under present conditions.

WHAT YOU CAN DO: You can help by traveling during the middle of the week—thus providing more seats for military personnel and war workers who must travel on weekends. ★ Greyhound will continue to furnish the best service that war conditions will permit. ★ But we must all remember—before personal convenience and pleasure—it is Victory First.

Down on the stage, the bass was doubling for me. He carried the Gilda in, put her on the rock, then picked up a cape, turned around and did my part. After Parma had taken Schultz out, and they had all taken their bows, they shoved the bass out there alone, and the audience stood up and gave him a rising vote, in silence, before they started to clap. His name was Woods. Remember it, Woods: the man that had what it takes. But "Ringoletto" didn't know anything about that, yet.

Back in 1921, when Dempsey fought Carpentier in Jersey, some newspaper hired a lady novelist to do a piece on it. She decided that what she wanted to write up was the loser's dressing-room after it was all over. She had been reading all her life about the winner and thought she would like to know for once what happened to the loser. She found out what happened to him was nothing. Carpentier was there, and a couple of rubbers were there, working on him and his manager was there, and that was all. Nobody came in to tell him he had put up a good fight, or that it was a hell of a wallop he hit Dempsey in the second round, or even to borrow a quarter.

That's how it was with me. There were no autograph hunters that night.

I got quiet after a while, and the noise outside died away, and I lit a cigarette and sat there. After a long time there was a tap on the door. I never moved. It came again and still again, and then I heard my first name called. It sounded like Doris and I went to the door and opened it. She was there, in a little green suit, and a brown felt hat, and brown shoes. She came in without looking at me.

"What happened?"

"Weren't you there?" I said. Doris looked at me then.

"I had to take the children home after the second act. I heard some people talking, on my way back here."

I remembered Lorentz, and his real crime at the Cathedral Theater that day. I was glad there was one person in the world that hadn't seen it. Three, because that meant she had taken the kids out before it happened.

"I got the bird," I told her. "Damn them."

I began to pull off the whiskers. She came over and did it for me. She got the towel and wiped off the make-up. She wiped clean, and patted, and frowned, like it was serious business and said, "Hold still," and I loved it.

"Now you'll do. Stay where you are. I'll put on your shoes."

I guess I don't have to tell you Doris had never put any shoes on for me before. I sat there, and she put them on and tied them, and helped me on with my shirt, my trousers and my coat. But I still didn't know why she had come. I had never seen her like this, but it wasn't any consolation scene, I could see that, and there was nothing in what had happened that explained it. If she hadn't been there when I flopped, what had she come back to the theater for anyway? She helped me on with my topcoat, gave my arm a little squeeze and we went out.

In the cab on the way up to my hotel I kept thinking there was something I had forgotten, something I had intended to do. Then I remembered. I was to sign the contracts, I sat back and watched the el posts go back. That was one thing I didn't have to worry about.

When we got into the lobby, I could see something glaring at me from a chair near the elevators, and I didn't tumble at first to what it was. There had been so many glares coming my way lately that one more didn't make much impression. But then I came out of the fog. It was Craig, my partner, whom I hadn't seen since we built the gag chicken coop up in Connecticut, and he had dug in at his place upstate. I blinked and looked at Doris, and thought may be that was why she had come around, or anyway had something to do with it. But she seemed as surprised as I was. He still sat there glaring at us, and then he got up and came over. He didn't shake hands. He started in high, and he was plenty sore.

"Where've you been?"

"And why here? What's the idea of hiding out in this dump? I've been looking for you all night, and it was just by accident that I found you just by accident."

Doris cut in, meeker than I ever heard her. "Why—one of the children was threatened with measles and Leonard came down here so he wouldn't be quarantined."

"Couldn't he let somebody know?"

"He—it was only to be for a few days."

That seemed to cool him off a little and I tried to be friendly. "When did you get to town? I thought you were up there milking cows?"

"Never mind when I got to town and never mind the cows. And out the comedy. Get this. You've got just forty-minutes to make a train, and pay attention to what I'm telling you."

"Shoot."

"Alabama. You've heard of it?"

"Sounds familiar."

"There's a big government-aid railroad bridge going up down there and we build bridges, this here Craig and Borland Company that we've got, even if you seem to have forgotten it. You get down there and you get that contract."

"Where is this bridge?"

"I got no time for that. It's all in here, in this briefcase, the whole thing, and you can read it going down. Here's your tickets, for the two of you, and remember, you got thirty-nine minutes. When you get there, I'll wire you our bid. I'll put the whole thing on the wire. It's being figured up now. The main thing now is—get there."

"O. K., Chief."

He turned Doris. "And you—"

"Yes, sir."

"Listen to what I'm telling you. This contract—this is no back-country tunnel. This is a bunch of well-born South'ners, dat dey granddaddy had slaves befo' de wa' and they've got to be impressed. You hear that? You take a whole floor in that hotel and you roll out the liquor and you step on it. You do all the things that your bum, sassidy, high-toned, good-for-nothing upbringing has taught you how to do, and then you do it twice."

"Booh. I know you."

"For once in your life, maybe you can be of some use."

"Just once?"

"If you put it across, you'll be back in time for Christmas. If you don't put it across, you needn't come back at all."

"We'll put it across..."

So we put it across, and that's what we're doing now. They've got the trusses while the scows are and flaps its wings and crows like hell whenever one of them falls in the river. But his wings haven't got much exercise on this job and neither has his voice. This is my trade. The river has got plenty tough once or twice, and we've had some tough have taken a dive yet...

But I'm ahead of my story. Craig had a paper stuck in his pocket, and after he had laid the law down he began to get sore again and remembered it. He tapped it with his finger. "And you keep in touch with me. If it hadn't been for this, seeing your name in this paper, just by accident, I wouldn't have known where to look for you."

He took it out and opened it, and pointed to a great big picture of me in the whiskers and wig and cap and bells on the theatrical page.

"Is that you?"

Doris let out a cackle that made everybody in the lobby look up. It was just a silvery peel that came from the heart, and it did you good to hear it. She wasn't laughing at me. She was laughing at Craig, and when I looked at him I had to laugh too. I had to laugh so hard I folded into one of the lobby chairs and scolded she. The look on that old hard-rock man's face, holding up that picture, was the funniest thing I ever saw in my life, or ever hope to see...

I scrambled up and threw my stuff into a bag and was so excited over getting back in harness that I kept singing all the time and didn't even feel bad about it, and down in the lobby Doris called the house, and we made the train. We had the drawing-room, but I was out of cigarettes, and I went into the club car to get some. When I got back she was already tucked in, in the upper berth, and all you could see was a tousie of red hair. I undressed got into the lower. I waited, and she didn't say anything. I turned out my light, and still noting from her. All you could hear was the wheels, going clickety-click. They kind of beat time, and I started to sing the opening of a duet:

"La ci darem la mano!
La mi dirai di sì
Vedi non e lontano
Partiam ben mio da qui!"

It was time for her to come in and I waited. Then: "Did you sing that with her?"

"No. I never did."

"Are you sure?"

"They were going to have me do 'Don Giovanni.' This last outfit, I mean. So I got the score, and found it there. I had heard you humming it around—so I learned it."

She came tumbling down the ladder, all floppy in a suit of my pajamas. She slipped in beside me "Leonard?"

"Yes?"

"I'm glad you flopped. Because I flopped—and if you could do this one thing I've always wanted to do, and can't—I couldn't stand it. And..."

"Go on. And what?"

"It'll be all mine, now, this that you have in your throat. That's why I came back there Leonard, when you sang that day at Gwynny's cocktail party it almost killed me. I think you wanted it to. Oh, I've been a terrible wife to you, Leonard, I'm jealous, and spiteful, and mean, and nothing will ever change me. But when I get too terrible, just sing to me, and I'll be your slave. I'll come crawling to you, just the way you came crawling to them, in the second act tonight. That woman has given us something that was never there before, and we get back I'm going to thank her, and win her, and make her my friend. Oh, I can—I don't care what has gone before. I can win anybody when I really want them...Now I'll say it—something you've never heard me say before: I've fallen in love. With my husband."

I held her tight. She put her mouth against my throat, and began kissing it. "Now sing, and I'll sing."

"La ci darem la mano!"

"La mi dirai di sì
Vedi non e lontano
Partiam ben mio da qui.
Vorrei e non vorrei
Mio tesoro un poco il cor
Felice e ver sarei
Ma non burlemai ancora..."

We sang it together and it was terrible, and it was the sweetest duet I ever heard.

MY PLACE IN THE SUN

by DOUG BARKETT

Some of you may have missed my bright (?) and shining puss around town during the past two weeks.... and then again you may not have even noticed. Anyway, I took a temporary appointment as junior quarantine inspector at the "bug" station east of town. Now any of you that think the job is nothing more than sitting in the office waiting for unsuspecting tourists to come in, can think again. It's a good, hard job. But on the other hand it's a most interesting job and the men I've been working with are probably the finest bunch I've ever met on one job. If you know anyone that is pleasanter to work with and for than Art Marts, Bob Bottel, Fritz Perry and Mel Hayes, I'd like to meet 'em. Those boys know their job and do it well. They lean over backwards to be nice to the "customer." If you feel inclined to criticize them, you'd better look into your own attitude. If there is anything that irks them it is the tourist who tries to "high pressure" them. They are as courteous as possible and all they ask is reciprocity.

Bill Lowe, one of the new highway patrolmen in this district, good-naturedly takes a lot of kidding from friends for his zeal in apprehending juveniles on the highways. Incidentally, rumors that Bill is leaving the patrol to work for the probation office are unfounded in fact. All this is very well and Bill can "take it." But remember some time it might be your son or daughter that takes a powder. It is really a great comfort to know there are officers like Bill on the lookout for their safety and yours. He has lost a lot of sleep and acquired a few gray hairs but still hews to an active execution of his duties. He is the kind of an officer who will someday find himself on top the heap, not through politics, but through his own consistent application and zeal.

Some weeks ago this column carried an item on the tin salvage depot at Loynd's Truckee Drug. Into this repository went used tooth paste shoe polish, shaving, etc., tubes because of the high content of tin needed in national defense. At that time it was voluntary on your part. Now the War Production Board up and says, bring 'em in or else. Or else you don't get any more tooth paste, shoe polish, shaving cream, or even et cetra in the handy little tubes.

HUNTER MAY ENJOY ANTELOPE SEASON IN LASSEN COUNTY

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—Applications for antelope hunting permits will be received by the California State Division of Fish and Game up to midnight April 20. These forms may be obtained from any office of the division or from local patrol captains.

After April 20, there will be a drawing to determine the lucky 500 who will enjoy the first antelope hunting in California in over 50 years.

When the names of the 500 applicants have been drawn, they will be notified to remit the $5 fee and be issued a permit. A second set of names shall be drawn to substitute for anyone failing to remit his $5 within a given time. A 1941-42 hunting license also is required.

The season on male antelopes will be open from May 29 to June 14, inclusive, and hunting will be permitted only in that portion of Lassen county north of Susanville-Litchfield-Pyramid Lake road and Cleghorn reservoir road and thence north and east of the Cleghorn reservoir and the Dixie Valley road and the Western Pacific Railroad to Highway 299 at Nubieber and east of Highway 299 from the south county line to Canby and east of the Canby Marlin highway.

DRUNK DRIVING IN STATE INCREASES REPORT REVEALS

SACRAMENTO, April 16.—(UP)—War prosperity, war psychology and heavy population increases were held today by the state motor vehicle department to be the contributing factors involved in the increase of drunken driving throughout the state.

The gain of this type of offense in January was reported to be 86 per cent over January, 1941. Estimated exceptionally heavy increases for February and March as well. Heavy increase in liquor tax revenue gave evidence of increased consumption.

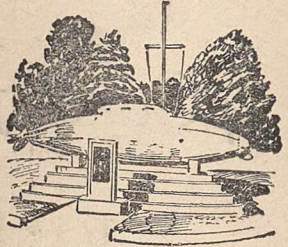

The department is invoking the law making mandatory revocation of driving licenses of any one convicted of drunken driving three or more times.

VICTORY PLEDGE TO BE FEATURED BY LOCAL BOND GROUP

An all-out "Victory Pledge Week" to increase the purchase of War Bonds and Stamps in California during the week of May 24 has been announced by Edward H. Heller, Northern California chairman of the War Savings Committee, according to an announcement received in Truckee by C. B. White, secretary of the local committee.

At the request of President Roosevelt, California's "Victory Pledge" will seek to enroll every man, woman and child who has any income of any sort, including the housewife who handles the family budget, and the child who will buy War Saving Stamps from earnings around the house and spending money.

White said Heller's announcement of the patriotic drive to support the boys on the fighting front included an invitation to attend a statewide meeting in San Francisco April 17 when executive chairmen and others will discuss final plans to have every person in California "sign up for the duration or longer, if necessary."

"When Hitler, Hirohito or Mussolini want anything, they take it! The axis way is confiscation of wealth, of materials, of men, women and children. And if the axis people don't like it, there is always the fighting line," White said.

"When American fighting forces need anything," he continued, "you are asked to give, either directly or through your elected representatives. This is the Democratic way—the standard of life we are fighting to perpetuate. This is a total war, however; to win it, every living person must take part."

White pointed out this was the first person-to-person appeal to all Californians to get behind the war effort with their dimes and dollars—not to give, but to save and invest in the best security in the world—the government of the United States.

Because of the vastness of the job of reaching every dwelling place in city and country in California, an entire week has been set aside for the pledge campaign. It will end on Memorial Day, a solemn day that commemorates the memory of the heroic dead of other wars fought to preserve American ideals; a free America of free enterprise and free men.

Tourists spent $50,629.00 in northern and central California in 1941, of which two-thirds was spent in the San Francisco bay region.

Politically Speaking

By JOHN W. DUNLAP
United Press Staff Correspondent

SACRAMENTO, April 16.—(UP)—It's practically official now that Governor Olson will be a candidate to succeed himself, although it's been a cinch bet for many months.

The governor told a thousand or more Democrats in Los Angeles there seemed to be an overwhelming feeling among the party that the administration should be continued. And he added significantly:

"And who am I to stop them?" The governor cited the fact that organizations were being formed to carry on a program for retaining his administration in power. He pointed out that similar Democrat gatherings were being held around the state and various county central committees and party organizations were passing resolutions urging him to run again.

The governor used the occasion to make a long defense of his administration and cited achievements in all fields. He was speaking to his friends and knew they wanted to make himself clear in his plans. So his left-handed acceptance of the "Draft Olson" movement was about all he could do at this time in the campaign, and awaits his actual filing of nomination papers to spring his formal announcement.

The governor will be a formidable man to beat. The democratic party now has about a million vote advantage over the republicans. Many of the newcomers are from south of the Mason-Dixon line and hardly know what it is to vote anything but democratic. Great numbers of people are too busy thinking about the war and domestic troubles to worry about state politics. The field is splitting up nicely from the Olson standpoint with Senator Robert Kinney and Assemblyman Gordon Garland already in the Democratic race and Earl Warren, Wallace Ware and Roger Jessup announced in the Republican fields.

Jessup, a member of the Los Angeles board of supervisors for 10 years and its president for the past six, was the latest candidate to enter the field. He is well known in the south, not so well acquainted up north.

Jessup has lined up a political organization headed by Earl B. Gilmore the oil man. He has an ambitious program, including abolition of the state income tax and other tax reductions; elimination of "racketeers among labor's petty leaders" but no direct stand on the hot cargo act referendum; intensive development of mineral and agricultural resources, and broad scale reforestation.

Jessup, now 53, is a large scale dairyman and says he understands the problems of the farmer. He was born in Utah, has lived in California for 23 years, is a veteran of the world war, and lives at Glendale. He is married and has five children.

Many names have been mentioned for lieutenant governor and the latest is C. J. (Neil) Haggerty, president of the California Federation of Labor a personable man in the good graces of the Olson administration. Haggerty is not at all the typical labor leader but is cultured, makes a good speech, and is a smart political tactician.

CIVIL PROTECTION WORK IN STATE IS NEEDED AT ONCE

SACRAMENTO, April 16.—Declaring that "we cannot afford to delay," Kenneth I. Fulton, acting executive director of the state Council of Defense, today issued an appeal for the "immediate enrollment in vital civilian protection work" of every available man and woman in California.

"Every Californian owes it to himself his family and his community to be prepared to act immediately and effectively when the enemy attacks," he declared.

"Unwarranted delays can only result in staggering loss of life and tremendous property damage, which can be sharply minimized if every citizen is trained and goes immediately to his or her post when the enemy strikes," he stated.

Thousands of volunteers are urgently needed in almost every phase of the civilian protection program being conducted by the state and local defense councils throughout California.

While for various reasons the governor may choose to lay off endorsements for lieutenant governor, Haggerty would line up a strong labor bloc behind the governor, particularly with the hot interest over the hot cargo referendum always in the picture.

Ellis Paterson will remain the tough man to beat in the race but Haggerty is a much better possibility to oppose him in the Democratic ranks than a many of the Olson lieutenants who have trotted out as trial balloons—and just as quickly popped.

The anvil chorus continues for a special session of the legislature to settle the state guard controversy but the governor just as resolute, indicates he doesn't want to call one. All his opponents, and particularly those who helped scramble the guard picture in January, now clamor for a special session with earnest promises to make an impartial study and listen to military recommendations.

The fact remains that all military recommendations were shunted aside in January, and approximately the same opportunity existed then to have a harmonious settlement that would exist in a special session. The plain truth is that everyone is playing politics and trying to knife the other side, with the state guard in the middle.

LIKE GRAPEFRUIT? YOU'LL LOVE Squirt

for a bubbling thirst quencher might well be just such a drink as Squirt.*

There's no secret to its astonishing popularity — to its coast-to-coast success. It's just a pure product, produced in a plant as spic and span as your own kitchen.

Made with golden grapefruit, sugar, and pure sparkling water... Squirt is a healthful, wholesome drink... containing no preservatives. All the goodness of naturally tree-ripened fruit is captured and held in its most tantalizing form.

That's why Squirt is a real all-day favorite with youngsters and oldsters alike. They've discovered its captivating tart-sweet* taste, its tangy flavor. They enjoy the "lift" they get from this luscious citrus drink.

On picnics, Squirt is unbeatable — at your bridge party, it will steal the show — at the ball game, it's almost as pleasing as a home run. Wherever you are... at work — fishing — at meals — on a trip — or just raiding the ice-box, Squirt is perfect. Everyone goes for it at the very first sip.

And aside from its clean, satisfying taste, Squirt is an alkaline-forming food. That's important, as every dietitian in the land will tell you. Squirt is far ahead of most beverages in this respect... and, unlike old-style drinks, does not make you thirsty again a few minutes later.

Take home a half-dozen bottles. Delight both friends and family with this fine beverage.
